

Pseudo GDPR

GDPR applies if data is personal data, data subject is a EU citizen, or data controller or data processor is in EU.

personal data is any data that can be associated to a physical person data subject is any identifiable physical person data subject has the right

- to give, modify, revoke consent to use data for certain purposes to data controller

- to ask access to data to data controller

- to ask removal of data to data controller data controller is an actor using data for certain purposes data controller has the right:

- to collect data subject consent

- to store personal data from data subject

- to use data if this use is compatible with data subject consent data controller has the duty:

- to modify, remove consent after data subject's request

- to enable access to data after request

- to lead removal of data after request

- to refer to GDPR-compliant data processors

- to notify data subject of breaches with undue delay

- to maintain a record of data processing activities

data processor is an actor processing data on behalf of the data controller data processor has the duty:

- to maintain and remove data after data controller's request

- to process data only according to the data subject consent

- to notify data controller if consent breach

- to delete or return all personal data to the controller

- after the end of the provision of services relating to processing

- to adequately secure data (encryption, pseudonymization, .. etc.)

- to notify data controller of breaches with undue delay

- to maintain a record of data processing activities

data processor has the right:

- to use subprocessor after data controller's consent (with full liability though!)